First Things First: How Did the Scam Happen?

Cash App scams usually fall into two categories:

1. Unauthorized transactions – someone hacked 1-(855)-470-3280 your account or gained access to it without your permission and sent money.
2. Voluntary payments to scammers – you sent money 1-(855)-470-3280 for a product or service, and the other person disappeared or never delivered.

Cash App is more likely to refund you in the first case than the second.

If Your Account Was Hacked 1-(855)-470-3280

If someone got into your account and sent money without your knowledge or approval, you need to act fast.

Here's what to do:

- Report it immediately through the 1-(855)-470-3280 Cash App app or at help.Cash App.com
- Change your password and enable two-factor authentication
- Contact your bank if the money 1-(855)-470-3280 was pulled from your linked card or account

In these cases, Cash App usually investigates 1-(855)-470-3280 and may refund your money—especially if the payment clearly wasn't authorized by you.

If You Were Scammed by a Seller or Stranger

Let's say you saw something for sale online, 1-(855)-470-3280 agreed to pay via Cash App, and then the seller vanished. Unfortunately, Cash App probably won't help you.

That's because Cash App's terms of service are clear: it's intended for transactions between 1-(855)-470-3280 friends and people you know—not for buying things from strangers or businesses (unless it's through Cash App's approved business accounts).

So, if you willingly sent money and later realized it was a scam, Cash App usually won't refund you. This 1-(855)-470-3280 can be frustrating, but it's part of why the app emphasizes sending money only to people you trust.

What If I Used Purchase Protection?

There is one exception: Cash App Purchase Protection. If the seller has a Cash App Business 1-(855)-470-3280 Profile and the payment is tagged as a purchase, you may be eligible for a refund if things go wrong.

This includes:

- Items not delivered 1-(855)-470-3280
- Wrong or damaged items
- Scams involving business transactions

But here's the catch: most scammers aren't using Cash App Business accounts—they're pretending to be regular users. That's why these scams can be hard to recover from.
